

Thinking about graduate school

Why go to graduate school?

- ▶ You want to know more and be able to use that knowledge to help people, research, teach, make a great discovery... As a graduate or professional student, you become part of the process for advancing and creating knowledge in your field. Be prepared for changes—the expectations from faculty members are different than for undergrads and are far more demanding.
- ▶ The career you want requires an advanced degree. Clearly, if you want to be a doctor, a lawyer, or a faculty researcher, an advanced professional degree is required. In order to advance in some fields—such as social work, public administration, education, and business—you may need to complete a professional master's program.

- ▶ Talk with current graduate students and faculty or professionals in your field. Ask them why they chose graduate or professional school. How has it helped them in their careers and life goals? What advice would they give to a student thinking about graduate school? Visit grad.msu.edu/departments.
- ▶ Attend our Graduate and Law School Fair in October to meet and get information from recruiters representing schools and programs around the country. Get more details on career events at CareerNetwork.msu.edu/events.

- ▶ You want to make more money. Having an advanced degree does not always translate to more money. Salaries for someone with an advanced degree vary by profession, job market, and location. Advanced degrees do not always mean better chances of finding a job, either. The key here is to do some solid research on your profession and the demand for people with advanced degrees.
